Spiny Mat Rush Lomandra longifolia

This tufted plant, from the same family as the Grass Tree, is found in many different habitats from sand dunes, open forest, creek banks to rainforest. It is recognised by its tough, strappy leaves and prickly clusters of flowers. The leaves are shiny and from 40cm up to 1m long and 8-12 mm wide. The tips of the leaves are prominently toothed. The stalkless flowers grow in clusters 1-2cm long on branches along a flattened stem. They are a creamy colour, sometimes purplish in the centre. There is a spiny bract at the base of each flower cluster. The leaves were used by Aboriginals to make baskets, strong net bags and traps for fishing.

Wootton Community Network News

“Community Working For the Community”

One of the aims of the Wootton Community Network is to support local projects. Our major project has been building and operating the Resource Centre, CTC and Brush Turkey Café. We hope to eventually be in a position where the café cannot only maintain the expense of running the whole centre/café but financially support local projects. This requires your local support. This can be done by: using the centre/café, voluntary work or getting involved in administration.

Café Volunteers We have a new roster co-ordinator. Thanks heaps to Bronwyn for doing this thankless job since opening. Garry will now be doing it. If you could please put your names on the roster or contact Garry on 49977167 to let him know when you would like to work. If not, expect a call! We always need volunteers, especially anyone that likes to cook and take on a supervisory role. As little as 4 hours a month will help spread the work load and you'll enjoy yourself in pleasant company.

What's on the menu at the Brush Turkey Café!

The new additions to the menu are the Gourmet Beef & Vegetarian Burgers served with caramelized onions and Chicken or Ham Salad Wraps. Back by popular demand are the Beef & Vegetarian Nachos and the Gourmet Focaccia. The delicious Mediterranean Vegetable Lasagne and the Indonesian Chicken Salad are still very popular as are our cakes. This month's specialty is Black Forest Cake and our famous Lemon Myrtle Cheesecake and Carrot & Pecan Cake are still popular. Any menu suggestions are welcome. See the volunteers at the Brush Turkey Café.

Call for crafts and produce! A room has been set aside for selling good quality local crafts etc. If you would like to sell your wares call into the café and discuss with the volunteers on the day.

Thanks to: Dulcie for volunteering to cook this month, everyone who donated to our auction, Bronwyn for cleaning out the gutters, Craig for constructing a gateway, Garry for fixing the storage shed and other various jobs, Jean & Kevin for organizing the Fathers' Day Breakfast, Pat for working in the vegi garden and Alison for organizing the Art Competition.

CTC News The Satellite has enabled the computers to operate the internet at 100Mbps which is at least 3 times faster than the average dial-up speed at home. We still have the form at the café to fill in your details for broadband connection in this area. We need 50 names. The CTC is open every Monday and Wednesday 4pm-6pm and all weekend 10-4. Services available are fax, photocopying, printing and internet access. Internet access has proved invaluable to some of our local students. We are always in need of volunteers to help with CTC operations.

WOOTTON ART PRIZE

We were pleased with this year's art prize. The prize winnings were considerably higher than last year and it was reflected in the calibre and quantity of work received, attracting not only local artists but those from Diamond Beach and Taree. This year's theme was country life and it attracted work in the various mediums of sculpture, printmaking, ceramics, photography, drawing and painting.

The opening night held at the Brush Turkey Café was a happy event with wine and food provided. Garth and Bruce brought their guitars along and created a good atmosphere. Thanks guys. Thanks to all those who helped with every aspect of putting on the exhibition and opening night. Thanks also to those that came along and made an evening of it.

The winning entry was painted by full-time artist R. Mitchell from Forster who took the $300 prize with his lyrical rendition of the old house at the Great Lakes Winery. The judge, Firefly gallery owner and artist Pauline Jollow, eventually picked this work because of its "relaxed and expressive application of paint and the country feel".

First Prize Winner R. Mitchell

The Old House at the Great Lakes Winery

The second prize went to Amanda Bicknell of Coolongolook with a delicate wash painting entitled "Wattle It Be". The judge commented that "wattle is so much a part of country living – love the title, beautiful sensitive colours, (she's) captured the essence of this flower".

The third prize went to local sculptor Paul Shipton with his ephemeral piece "Hoss finds a bride" where a farmer corrals his farm animals into an enclosure of lamingtons, barbed wire and intrigue. "Love the use of farm equipment and found objects. True Australian humour" was the judge's response.

We are very grateful to the local resident that sponsored this prize, likewise to Ellen and Mick who provided packs of art equipment and Coopers Framing and Art Supplies of Taree for their gift voucher.

The gift packs were for school aged children, were awarded in no particular order, and they went to: Lillian Shipton for her digital collage/painting of bushland, cows and wildlife which the judge thought was "just fabulous".

C.Watts with his psychologically charged pencil drawing of a landscape that was judged as "a striking and interesting rendition".

The very young Eden Flower won with her painting called "summer grass". The comment from the judge was that this work was "so beautiful and sensitive".

Another award went to well known artist Stephanie Flower for the portrait she drew of her daughter Eden called "Eden in spring".

Thanks to Pauline Jollow for the time and effort she put into the judging of these works which she assured us was not a happy or an easy task.

Alison Higgs

On display now local artist Warren West's sculptures and artwork at the Brush Turkey Café are well worth a look.

Coolongolook Sports & Tennis Club

The culmination of all our efforts over the last few years came to fruition last Saturday with the Grand Opening of The Multi-purpose court at Coolongolook. The court was officially opened by Peter Britt from The Dept of Sport & Recreation and Councillor Lynette Lawry from Great Lakes Council. Over 100 people enjoyed morning tea, a barbeque lunch and a hit of tennis. Champion Veteran Players from Forster, Frank Pill and Margaret Waite were the first to play on the courts. The court surface is a synthetic grass embedded with sand. It needs lots of playing to spread the sand and to make a better playing surface. So we are looking for new members with the intention of playing in a competition or in having a good social time together. Membership (a one off joining fee) is $20 Seniors and $10 Juniors/Pensioners and Annual Subs is $20 Seniors and $10 Juniors/Pensioners. Court hire is $12/hr Casual hire, $6/hr Members' hire and $2/hr for Juniors.

Please support our continuing fundraising to raise money for lights.

Bingo is still on every 2nd Thursday: 20th October, 3rd/17th November 7pm eyes down at Coolongolook Hall

We are also catering for the Husquvarna Bulahdelah Trail Bike Rally on the 5th/6th November.

Thanks to all our helpers.

Wootton Rural Fire Services

Permit season started on 1st October. Please contact Robyn Smith on 49977209 or Mike Badcock on 49977337 for a permit to light fires. Please note you will need to give them plenty of notice as they only inspect your proposed fires on Thursdays. An indication of the potential severity of this fire season was the announcement of a Total Fire Ban for Saturday the 8th. Even if you have a permit you cannot light any fire during a ban, except for food preparation. If you have a permit read the conditions carefully, especially with the westerly winds we are experiencing at present. If in doubt do not light. You will be liable for any damage caused by your fire. Very heavy fines and/or gaol can be imposed for lighting a fire without a permit. Remember a permit does not absolve your responsibility to think and act responsibly. Any fire causing damage will be referred to the police and if serious enough the Coroner's Court.

Coolonglook School News

A huge congratulations to Megan Harrington as the first person to receive a gold badge. She received her badge for outstanding efforts and results in academic, social and sport and cultural areas during the year.

Damien Rae and Tully Gray are the first students from Coolonglook to complete the Premier's Reading challenge. This was a tremendous effort by both boys, and an official presentation of certificates will be held later in the year.

This week we will begin swimming school, and will be travelling to the Aquatic Centre in Forster every Friday. A huge thanks needs to go to the manager of the Nabitac Hotel, Mr Matthew Morris, for allowing us to use the hotel courtesy bus to transport the students to and from the pool.

Kindergarten orientation has begun, and we welcome any new enrolments for 2006 in what can only be described as a wonderfully safe, caring and supportive learning environment.

Dyers Crossing Landcare Group Inc

Dyers Crossing Landcare Group Inc came into being in early 1999, soon after the Wallis Lake oyster scare. Dairy farmers in the area were concerned about the disposal of dairy effluent and its impact on the water quality in the Wallis Lake system. It was only later that concerns extended to a wide range of environmental and sustainability issues. Recently, many new people have moved into the area and, as a result, the membership of the group has changed and, similarly, interests changed. People have come from urban and more densely-populated areas to live on the smaller acreages that have resulted from subdivision of land in the area. These people have joined an already-existing group of long-term residents who are concerned with environmental issues and natural resource management. Our membership covers a wide areas, including in Dyers Crossing, NABIAC, Krumbach, Firefly, Failford, Wootton, Coolongolook and Forster. As well as conducting on-ground projects, we run workshops and field days of interest to our members and the local community. For example, recently, we have conducted sessions on indigenous tree identification, the protection of habitats for native flora and fauna, native seed propagation and bushfire risk management.

Dyers Crossing Landcare Group Inc has just published a field identification guide for local indigenous trees. The book is 128 pages in length, contains 80 colour photographs, and is spiral-bound to facilitate tree identification in a field setting. It has five sections: Section 1 provides information about how to use the book, including keys for use in identifying trees. Section 2 is the main section of the book and contains colour photographs, diagrams and descriptions of 72 common Australian trees and shrubs found on the Mid North Coast. Section 3 contains information relating to protecting habitats for common and threatened species of plants and animals.. Section 4 contains a description of four major weed trees. Section 5 contains a list of resources and further reading. The book can be ordered by mail for $30 from Dyers Crossing Landcare Group Inc, P O Box 3 NABIAC NSW 2312. Alternatively, copies can be obtained for $25 directly from Robbs Rural Supplies, NABIAC, Krumbach Post Office, and Dyers Crossing Produce Store, Wallanbah Road, Dyers Crossing.

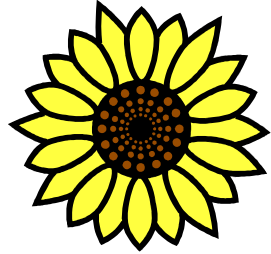

On Friday 4th November, 2005 we will be hosting a lecture by David Holmgren, the noted permaculturist. David will give his lecture in the NABIAC Showground Hall at 7.30 pm. The lecture is free for members and $8.00 for non members. This price includes a light supper. David Holmgren was the co-originator (along with Bill Mollison) of the permaculture movement which started in Australia in 1978. He is an author and international speaker and is committed to presenting permaculture ideas with practical projects for a realistic sustainable lifestyle.

We warmly welcome new people from the Wootton area to join our group and invite you to attend one of our general meetings which take place on the first Thursday of every other month. Our next meeting is on 3rd November. For more information about Dyers Crossing Landcare Group and the Friday lecture please contact: Chairperson Lindsay Gething (6550 2190) or Secretary Geraldine Carson (6554 1409). Lost in the Bush

At 3:30 I received a phone call from Al Freihaut, Visitors Info Bulahdelah, who told me there was a lost walker in the Wang Wauk State forest, along the Railway Walk. He gave me the guys mobile phone number and asked whether I could ring and sort him out. I rang the guy straight away. Through talking to him I worked out his location. His name was Martyn. I told him to stay there and I would come and find him. I headed off with my son, Elliott, on what I thought would be an easy find. He had pinpointed his position at the concrete pipe with a log across the path. I'd walked the path many times recently and was pretty familiar with the terrain and confident of finding the walker before nightfall. When we arrived at the location he wasn't there. We called out, but could hear no answer, so decided he must have had his location wrong. We therefore decided to walk further west along the path calling as we went. We got to the point where the walk crosses Wang Wauk Forest way, 3km from the start. From here on, the path is quite overgrown and it's not recommended to use. We decided he must have meant some other pipe and log further along the path so we decided to trudge on through overgrown paths covered with Lantana, We only had another 45minutes of light. We walked on west towards the picnic area wondering where this guy had got to. It was getting dark and we knew if we didn't find him soon he would be stuck out there over night. We got all the way to the end (6kms)and still no walker. A forestry worker happened along the road so we hailed him down. We asked whether he had seen this walker but he hadn't. I asked whether he could go back via Sam's Camp and ask my daughter to come and collect us. By this time it was dark and getting back home to ring the police was my only concern. We arrived back home at about 6:15 and checked for messages. Martyn had left a message to say that the battery was low on his phone and he would not be able to contact me again. I rang the police at Bulahdelah. No one was there so I was transferred to the Taree police. I gave them all the information I knew and left it in their hands, a relief that the burden of finding this guy was not just up to me. I rang Craig Tate, who Al Fieihaut had said had been in contact with the walker, to find out what he knew. He told me he had talked to the guy at about 12 o'clock and had ,what he thought, directed him out of the bush. Craig had said he had been at a locked gate which was near the fire tower at Mount Mistake, at least 1/2 a kilometer from the walk. He said he would go out with the fire crew to try and find him. At about 9pm I felt I had to give it another try so ventured out again into the forest by car and stopped along the road beeping the horn and yelling out. I was glad it was a mild night and knew he wouldn't freeze. I returned home, still wondering what had happened to Martyn. I knew he was still out there as his camper was still at Sam's camp. After an unsettled night, I was awoken by a phone call at 6am. Upon answering the phone it cut out. The display on the phone read the walkers phone number. I immediately rang the Bulahdelah police who advised me to await for a phone call from Taree.

My next phone call came from Sydney police. I was questioned again about all the events that had taken place and advised that there was a meeting in Bulahdelah at 8am to arrange the search. I arrived at the police station and saw SES, volunteer Fire Brigade and police in white overalls. They had arrived from Sydney by helicopter and were about to set off on the search when a forestry worker, Mick Worth, brought him in. He had ironically found him wandering along Worth's Road. He rang the Bulahdelah Police to inform them that he was found. Martyn and Mick then drove to Bulahdelah Police Station. I arrived at about 8:30 and walked right past the walker. I didn't get a chance to talk to him as the police were keen to question him. I wondered where he had got to! One day I would find out. A week later, Martyn left a message on my phone to thank me for my efforts and queried where I had got to. I couldn't leave it at that so I rang him and arranged a meeting at my place. He came on the Sunday with his lap top with photos of the place where he had spent the night. He had gone out again on the Saturday to find out where he had gone wrong. He had blamed the lack of signage for his getting lost. I asked him why he hadn't stayed in the spot he had told me he would be. His reply was that he thought he would make it easier for me to walk further along the track towards Sam's camp so I wouldn't have to walk so far. About 150metres or so. It turned out the spot he'd actually moved to was somewhere off the path. He'd apparently followed an old Forestry trail. He hadn't doubted that he was wrong. I still can't fathom why someone would move away from the location he had pinpointed for me. It just seemed a crazy thing to do. Martyn has since contacted me again and called in and gave me a present of a set a cb's. They've been really fun and I'm sure will be useful when we're in the bush. All's well that ends well.
